

There's nothing more dangerous than other people's opinions.

'I read Mrs March in one sitting and was so captured by it'

Elisabeth Moss

'Mrs March is just the psychoanalytic comedy-of-manners thriller that I didn't know I so desperately needed'

Elif Batuman

'A delicious, disorienting study of suspicion, societal pressure and shifting identities, brilliantly rendered'

Rachel Edwards

'This is storytelling at its most compelling, sinuous and needle-sharp. A triumph'

Catriona Ward
